

Michael Majid Bio

A native of Palos Verdes, Michael has had the unique opportunity to witness the everchanging landscape of peninsula from semi-rural to suburban. Michael has been in real estate since 1991 and began his real estate career by working in Commercial Land development with his family's business.

Before beginning transitioning into his current residential real estate career, Michael co-founded several internet start-ups that focused on managed services. These businesses were later sold and acquired by other tech firms. These experiences have allowed him to develop and polish his business skills, especially in communication and problem solving.

Michael has been an active member of the PVPAR board and community since entering residential real estate and has participated on PVPAR committees such as the YPN (Young professionals network) as well as local charitable organizations. Michael also recently received an award for Top Producer at Vista Sotheby's International Realty in 2019.

Michael holds a degree from USC Marshall School of Business with a concentration in Business Administration. In addition, Michael is also an active member of the Long Beach POA, and a board member for the 501 (C) 3 charity, The Anita Boden Foundation.

When he is not working or volunteering, Michael spends most of his free time with his two young daughters and wife.
