

From Beverly Hills glamorous life and the relaxing vibes of Redondo Beach, to the breathtaking views of Rancho Palos Verdes: Los Angeles, the South Bay, and Palos Verdes offer a unique array of lifestyles and properties second to none. Where else in the world can you have access to mountains, beaches, and city life all at the tip of your fingers? Discover just some of the communities we actively engage in.

Puni Patel was born and raised in Zambia (Africa) and moved to the US in the early 90's. She comes from a background of 15 years in commercial real estate focusing primarily on the commercial sector. She brings with her a client service background dealing with a wide variety of clients all around the So-Cal area.

Real estate transactions can be complex, and you deserve the help and representation from an agent who will have your best interests in mind.

Puni has been involved in a variety of organizations ranging from running the only female only auto garage in Zambia to sitting on the Board of Advisors for Vista's for Children(A charity that raises fund to help special needs kids)

Puni is committed to providing impeccable service focused on the individual needs of each and every client. Real estate transactions can be complex, and you deserve the help and representation from an agent who will have your best interests in mind.

Her goal is to see all her clients succeed in all their real estate investments, and overcome market challenges, making every real estate experience as smooth as possible. Her attention to detail and first-class service continue well beyond the real estate transaction, to lasting relationships with my clients years after the final papers are signed.

She is also continuously educating myself in the latest real estate marketing trends to obtain the knowledge, tools, and technology to ensure every listing is effectively marketed on and offline.

If you're thinking of buying and/or selling, it pays to consult the expertise of an honest professional.