Shima serves as a buyers and listing specialist within The Kondo Group at Movoto Real Estate. She is proudly fluent in Farsi and enjoys helping her fellow Iranians.

After receiving a double major in Journalism and Child Development from Long Beach California State University, she was fortunate to land an internship with one of the South Bay's prestigious real estate magazines, DIGS Magazine.

While there, she managed the social media accounts of the South Bay's top producing real estate agents. This ultimately led her into becoming a full-time agent.

Due to her noteworthy marketing techniques, Shima continues to manage a multitude of agents' social media accounts today.

When she's not working, she enjoys dedicating her time helping dog rescues and our U.S. Troops by donating care packages to those overseas. Her core values revolve around family and culture, where she is able to provide a unique and personalized experience when helping others. She does this by listening to each family's needs and wants and makes it a priority to achieve.

As the daughter of small business owners, she holds tremendous respect for other mom-and-pop businesses. She finds unique ways to give back and support them, often promoting and tagging them on her social media handles.

Shima is incredibly passionate about furthering her education to best serve her clients' needs and does this as often as possible by attending ongoing training seminars.

She has completed several certifications including Military Relocation Professional (MRP), the Certified Negotiation Expert, and Veteran-based course, Did You Serve? Identifying Home Buying Advantages for Veterans.

"I look forward to working alongside the 2021 President-Elect Committee and hope to bring positive changes that will benefit all our members for years to come."
